

Legal & Commercial

March 2018

In this edition...

- Australia's concrete product sector declines with important growth
- A promising start to 2018 for Australia's construction industry □
14.5% growth expected for Australia's commercial construction sector □ Burning to have your say on changes to the NCC?
- How Victoria's new PPP will affect civil works
- Employment rates booming with more than 100,000 construction jobs
- The top 100 players in Australia's development and construction game
- Here's how to manage your IT dollar\$ for maximum ROI

Australia's concrete product sector declines with important growth

The increasing importation of concrete products has caused Australian industry revenue to decline, according to this market research report.

Read more

A promising start to 2018 for Australia's construction industry

January marked a full year of monthly growth in Australia's construction sector. The Australian Performance of Construction index increased 1.5 points to 54.3 in January.

Read more

14.5% growth expected for Australia's commercial construction sector

Australia's economy is predicted to receive a $42 billion injection this year thanks to activity in the commercial construction industry.

Read more

Burning to have your say on changes to the NCC?

The consultation period for proposed changes to NCC 2019 is now open and the Australian Building Codes Board (ABCB) is seeking your feedback. Have your say before 13 April 2018.

Read more

How Victoria's new PPP will affect civil works

The Victorian Government has received bids from consortia for an Australian first Public Private Partnership (PPP). It will see the upgrade of approximately 800km of arterial and local roads in Melbourne's southern suburbs.

Read more

Employment rates booming with more than 100,000 construction jobs

Employment in the building and construction sectors has reached a record high as Australia's boom continues.

Read more

The top 100 players in Australia's development and construction game

The HIA-Core Logic Construction 100 Report has ranked the top civil, commercial, and multi-residential construction contractors according to the dollar value of the 20162017 financial year. Check out who made the list!

Read more

Here's how to manage your IT dollar$ for maximum ROI

The construction sector is known for facing uncertainty and managing competitive forces better than most. Sign up to ACIF's free E-news and watch the webinar on where to focus your IT dollars for maximum Return on Investment (ROI).

Register and watch here